South Australia's Oyster Industry is Back to Business After Pacific Oyster Mortality Syndrome

SEAFODNEWS.COM [Port Lincoln Times] - April 13, 2018

The commercial oyster industry on the Eyre Peninsula breathed a sigh of relief last week when Primary Industries and Regions SA announced the whole of South Australia's oyster industry was free of POMS (Pacific Oyster Mortality Syndrome).

The local oyster industry has taken hit after hit since POMS was detected in Tasmania in 2016.

While it was that outbreak which crippled the local industry with no spat allowed in from the state where local growers typically purchased about 80 per cent of their spat - it was the outbreak of the disease in feral oysters in the Port River at the beginning ...

Copper River Opens May 17 With Sockeye Run Near Averages, but Big Improvement in Kings

SEAFODNEWS.COM [Seafod News] by Peggy Parker - May 7, 2018

The famed Copper River salmon season opens on Thursday, May 17 for a first period of just 12 hours -- from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

USF&C manages the Copper River returns of salmon by ensuring that adequate escapement makes it up the river to spawn. Subsequent periods will be announced as season.

The total run of Chinook salmon is estimated at 43,000 fish, close to the ...

Months After Rafael Went to Prison, New Bedford Groundfish Landings Still on Hold

SEAFODNEWS.COM [The Boston Globe] By David Abel - May 7, 2018

In the harbor off Leonard's Wharf, the large steel boats with their signature green hulls are rusting in the salt air, their dormant nets still coiled as if ready to scoop up schools of cod or haddock.

In the parking lot behind Reid's Manufacturing, more than a dozen travel molders in the dirt, their floats and cables weathered and waiting.

From the icehouse to the auction house, a pall hangs over the fabled wharves ...

Nova Scotia Premier Says Rushed MPA Decisions Not Based on 'Science, Research or Fact'

SEAFODNEWS.COM [CBC News] by Jean Laroche - May 7, 2018

Premier Stephen McNeil personally warned a federal panel on marine protected areas on Friday its decisions could have dire consequences for Nova Scotians who make their living from the North Atlantic Ocean.

Banning fishing and other activities in protected areas has a huge impact on communities, particularly those along the province's Eastern Shore, he told the National Advisory Panel on Marine Protected Area Standards in Moncton.

"If somehow our lobster fishery is affected ...

Crayfish Prove to be a Gold Mine in Current Chinese Cuisine

SEAFODNEWS.COM [Shinichen] translated by Amy Zhong - May 7, 2018

What does summer taste like? Many foodies in China believe it tastes like delicious crayfish. Crayfish can help people break free of worries and unhappiness, say some crayfish sellers. If they fail to do that, it means the unhappy need to eat more.

Statistics show crayfish prices in April in Qianjiang of Hebei province, the main aquaculture region, have been continually rising. The best quality ones are sold at 39 yuan/jin ...

Louisiana Shrimpers Disappointed With Shrimp Size, Prices During First Week

SEAFODNEWS.COM [Daily Comet] by Andrea Mujica - May 7, 2018

The spring shrimp season that opened Monday isn't off to a good start because the shrimp are not big enough and the prices are very low.

"Current reports show that the volume of brown shrimp landings is good, higher than the past couple years, and that sizes seem fairly typical for the spring inshore season," said Peyton Cagle, crustacean biologist with the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries.

But shrimpers and processors are disappointed ...

Surf Clam Quota Decision has Divided First Nations, Set off Lobbying

SEAFODNEWS.COM [CBC News] by Paul Withers - May 7, 2018

One of the Trudeau government's signature acts of Indigenous reconciliation is being challenged in court, exposing the fierce competition between First Nations for a shellfish quota worth millions — and the jockeying by one of Canada's leading seafood companies to keep control of the fishery.

Hundreds of pages of records filed in Federal Court offer new insight into the controversial decision in February to award 25 per cent of Canada's Arctic surf clam quota to ...

Lobster Prices Dropping in Seasonal Move, Despite Canadian Delays

SEAFODNEWS.COM [Associated Press] By Patrick White - May 7, 2018

Lobster prices are high in the U.S. right now, but members of the industry expect them to come down soon as the Canadian catch creeps up and America's summer haul gets going.

One-pound lobsters, which Mainers call "chicks," are selling for about $12 per pound to consumers, which is a couple of dollars per pound more than six months ago. The U.S. lobster industry, based heavily in Maine, is in a slow mode as fishermen get ready to pull traps in the summer ...

Chinese Fishing Firm Tests Water With Giant Salmon Farm

SEAFODNEWS.COM [South China Morning Post] by Frank Tang - May 7, 2018

A Chinese fisheries company has launched a massive deep-sea salmon farming facility in the eastern province of Shandong to help meet the country's growing appetite for seafood.

Shandong Wanzheng Fishing, the operator, said a fully submersible net cage called Deep Blue No 1, the world's biggest, had been delivered to the shipyard of state-owned Wuchang Shipbuilding Industry, state-run Xinhua reported.

The 35 metre high cage was deployed in the Yellow Sea about 130 nautical miles ...

U.S. Coldwater Prawn Prices Declined in April

English demand from the US caused coldwater prawn prices to decline in April, while the beginning of the shrimp season has bulked up available supplies. But prices remain almost 40% higher than the same period in 2017. Quotas for haddock in the Barents Sea north of Scandinavia were lowered this year to 202,305 tonnes, a cut of 13% in comparison to the previous year, jacking up prices by more than a quarter. Prawn prices in the UK have dropped ...

Scottish Fishermen Concerned Hake Boom Will Tie Vessels Up

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [The Press and Journal] By Keith Findlay - May 7, 2018

Scotland's fishing fleet is facing a "critical" risk which could force boats out of business or scupper the EU-wide ban on discards, it has been claimed. Rural Economy Secretary Fergus Ewing delivered the warning as he urged the UK Government to take action. Writing to his counterpart at Westminster, George Eustice, Mr Ewing said there was a "historic mismatch" with current North Sea hake quota that could stop boats going to sea ...

B.C. Shellfish Industry Reeling From Oyster-Linked Illnesses

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [Postmedia Breaking News] by Lindsey Kines - May 4, 2018

A norovirus outbreak linked to people eating raw oysters from farms in south and central Baynes Sound has hurt B.C.'s entire shellfish industry, a growers' association said Wednesday. Federal officials closed four farms as a precaution after the outbreak began in early March. But despite the fact the illness was traced to a limited geographic area, all B.C. growers have felt the effects of public health warnings, said Darlene Winterburn, executive director of the B.C. Shellfish Growers' Association ...

FDA Changes Name: Brown King Crab Now Officially Golden King Crab

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [Seafood News] - May 4, 2018

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) replaced the common or usual name for "brown king crabmeat" with "golden king crabmeat" in a Federal Register final rule yesterday. FDA took the action a year after the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2017 (Pub. L. 115– 31), was signed into law on May 5, 2017. The rule is effective May 3, 2018. The compliance date for this rule is January 1, 2020. Any adjustments to a product's labeling much occur by ...

EU Frets Over Use of Antibiotics in India's Primary Shrimp Production

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [Business Standard] by Nirmalya Behera - May 4, 2018

The European Union, which accounts for about 18 per cent of India's seafood exports valued at $5.7 billion, is apparently miffed with no official controls in primary production of shrimps in India. An audit team from EU had visited the Indian farm and processing facilities in November last year. Trade sources in UK said that an EU official, at the recently concluded Brussels Seafood Show, pointed out that official controls in India do not fully cover ...

New Brunswick Aquaculture Company Northern Harvest Faces Pesticide Charge

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [CBC News] By Connell Smith - May 7, 2018

Little information is being released about a charge to be laid this month against New Brunswick-based Northern Harvest Sea Farms. The company is alleged to have violated a section of the province's Pesticides Control Act. Sen. Murkowski Continuing to Fight for Labeling After FDA Approval of AquaBounty Salmon Facility

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [The Cordonia Times] - May 7, 018

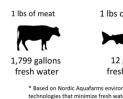

AquaBounty may have won federal approval on April 26 for a genetically engineered salmon facility in Indiana, but they won't be able to produce GE salmon there, says Sen. Lisa Murkowski, R-Alaska. The Alaska Republican's comments on May 1 came in the wake of Federal Drug Administration approval of an application for an AquaBounty salmon facility in Indiana last week. The company began developing genetically engineered salmon in 1996 and received ...

Nordic Aquafarms Making Progress with Giant Indoor Plant in Belfast, Maine

SEAFOODNEWS.COM by John Sackton - May 7, 2018

Nordic Aquafarms claims they are making progress towards the large indoor salmon farming facility they are proposing in Belfast, Maine. However, they are still doing due diligence before actually purchasing the land. They have confirmed that the water supply they need can be sustainably pumped on site. They also point out that their technology for raising salmon uses .0007% as much fresh water per pound as raising a pound of beef. The Belfast City Council has unanimously approved ...

Poor Outlook for Labrador Fishermen Dependent on Crab and Shrimp

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [CBC NEWS] May 7, 2018

Roy Mangrove is worried.

After years of seeing cuts to his crab and shrimp quotas, the fisherman from St. Lewis in southern Labrador is facing a further 25 per cent cut in shrimp this season.

That drops his quota to 61,000 lb. this year, from 82,000 last year.

"Everything going good, you can make a bit of money on it, but for us we got ... three trips of crab and one trip of shrimp. So four weeks and we're finished," Mangrove told CBC's Labrador Morning this week.

Mangrove and his crew fish in Shrimp ...

Lobsters Boost Wuhan Hema Grand Opening: Hema Plans Additional Stores

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [HBR] translated by Amy Zhang - May 7, 2018

Hema's first store in Wuhan was open for business on April 28 and large quantities of locals waiting outside rushed into the store to grab Boston lobsters priced at 98 yuan (~$15.43 USD) each. Store staff replenished the lobster tanks four times in half a day and the store had to limit entry of consumers within half an hour of the opening. Apart from lobsters, other seafood like crayfish and frozen salmon from Norway were also widely received ...

Fisheries Council of Canada Looks for a Clear and Stable Policy Framework in Fisheries Act

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [Seafood News] by Susan Chambers - May 4, 2018

The Fisheries Council of Canada appeared before the House of Commons Standing Committee on Fisheries and Oceans on Thursday and called for a clear and stable policy framework that will instill confidence to invest in fisheries and support conservation.

The Committee is continuing its hearings on Bill C-68, Amendments to the Fisheries Act. The bill contains extensive amendments to restore lost protections from 2012 and to incorporate modern safeguards, according to the Fisheries Council. It is part of the government's review of environmental and regulatory processes.

The Committee also held a meeting on Wednesday. ...

N.B. Lobster Fishermen Anxious As Start Of Season Keeps Getting Delayed

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [CBC News] by Gabrielle Fahmy - May 4, 2018

Lobster fishermen in northern New Brunswick are increasingly worried about the fishing season, as they see delay after delay because of the conditions.

The official start date was April 30, but the ice in many harbours, along with strong winds, has made it too dangerous to go out.

The date has already been pushed back twice, and fishermen will only find out after a meeting Friday whether the season will start next week or ...

Falling Overboard 2nd Biggest Killer of U.S. Fishermen

SEAFOODNEWS.COM [Fish Radio with Laine Welch] - May 4, 2018

This is Fish Radio. I'm Laine Welch. What's Alaska's deadliest catch?

Falling overboard is the second biggest killer of U.S. fishermen, second only to vessel sinkings.

From 2000 through 2016, 204 U.S. fishermen died after falling overboard. Nearly 60 percent were not witnessed, and nearly 90 percent were never found. In every case, not one fisherman was wearing a life jacket.

I think there is a social stigma against it. It doesn't look cool, it's a sort of macho thing ...
